

CHAPTER VI
CONCLUSION

We concluded that ACA had poorer response for RT/CCRT including overall CR and time to clinical CR in locally advanced cervical cancer than SCC. However, 5-year OS did not difference between two cell types. Clinical stage is still being the only one prognostic factor for determining survival outcomes. Prospective study in ACA patients should be done to find out the suitable treatment in each stage of cervical cancer patients.

